JUNE 2026 – NEWSLETTER

My dear friends,

Earlier this week, I found myself doing what many of us have been doing – taking stock of the world around us. Rising gas (diesel) prices. Inflation that seems to touch everything. The weight of a world that feels like it's changing faster than we can keep up.

I sat down on Thursday to write this Pastor's Pen, but something told me to wait. As I watched a news channel, and the talk of drone attacks on our homeland, I was reminded of how easily our field of vision can narrow, how quickly we forget that the world is both larger and more fragile than we sometimes realize.

And it reminded me of something else.

A couple of Sundays ago, we heard Jesus say, "Do not let your hearts be troubled." (John 14:1). Those words are not spoken from a place of ease or distance. They are spoken on the edge of everything falling apart – spoken into fear, uncertainty, and a future the disciples cannot yet see clearly.

In other words, they are spoken for a world very much like ours.

"Do not let your hearts be troubled" is not a command to ignore reality. It is an invitation to trust that reality is not all there is. It is a reminder that even in a world of rising prices, uncertain futures, and even the horrors of war, there is still a deeper truth: Christ is present. Christ is leading. Christ is, as he says, "the way, the truth, and the life."

Sometimes finding "the way home" begins not by solving everything in front of us, but by lifting our eyes just enough to see beyond ourselves – into the lives of others, into the work of compassion, into the quiet but persistent movement of God's Spirit in the world.

As I write this, it made me wonder:

Where is God inviting us to widen our vision?

Where is Christ already at work, even now, calling us to follow?

We may not be able to fix everything. But we can listen. We can care. We can pray. And we can trust that the One who is leading us will not abandon us along the way.

See you Sunday!

Blessings,
Pastor Kyle

PRAYERS: For Peggy Smith, men & women serving in the military and the families of those in the military.

Lord make me willing,
go that extra mile
Let me put away my frown
And while I go, wear a smile.

my time is not so precious,
if it's not spent for you.
so help me to be willing.
To do what you want me to.

These little interruptions,
come into my day
Are the things you created
So, I can go about your way.

let me put off today,
that which is self-serving.
I want to be Your servant
And to be more observing.

So, if there is someone,
You know who needs me.
I'll go that extra mile,
and promise to ----just smile.
